Devoted Exclusively To Carmel and Vicinity

VOLUME NO. TWO — CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CALIF., THURSDAY, MARCH 29, 1934 — NUMBER 9

Rev. Michael O'Connell

Rev. Fr. O'Connell, newly appointed to the Carmel Mission brings this message to Carmel Sun readers:

"While I admit I feel unworthy, still I deem it a great privilege to be appointed to the pastorate of the Mission San Carlos Borromeo del Rio Carmelo. For one to emulate even in a small way the spiritual ideal set by Fr. Serra must of necessity mean in the words of the Holy Scriptures a continual 'Putting off the old man and putting on the new.'

This year, the one hundred fiftieth anniversary of Fr. Serra's death, will reveal in most vivid fashion the spirit, the sacrifice, the daring of the great apostle of California. His life work will be depicted in most exquisite pageantry, portrayed under the facile pen of the dean of American producers, Mr. George Marion. Fr. Serra will surely walk amongst us next August in the Mission grounds he loved so well.

"The spiritual side of his life will also be depicted through the beautiful and impressive ritual of the church which will be carried out by the many bishops present for the occasion.

"It is a pleasure to work with the people of Carmel Ever since I came I must candidly admit I have met with nothing but helpfulness and courtesy from every side. In return for all that, my ernest hope and prayer is that every person in the community will reap a harvest spiritually and financially next August from what at the present time shows signs of being one of the greatest ecclesiastical and civic functions ever undertaken in California."

Charles, younger son of Mrs. Teresa Duranti of the Lucca, who is taking treatment in the hospital, is improving.

"STABAT MATER" IS A GRAND PRODUCTION

By E.F.B.

When I was asked to attend the dress rehearsal of Stabat Mater, I almost refused, thinking it might spoil my enjoyment of Thursday night's performance. I know now how foolish I was. You could go to hear Stabat Mater every night for a long time and still enjoy it. I wish every person in Carmel could go either to Sunset Thursday night or to Pacific Grove Friday night to hear this production, this Easter program with its four imported soloists, the Monterey Peninsula orchestra, and the chorus directed by Fenton Foster, all under the magnificent direction of Michel Penha.

I wish you all could hear Marie Wallman's clear soprano tones float out as she sings the solo parts in "Inflammatus." You'd never forget her.

And Calista Rogers, second soprano! How she carries you along in "I Will Sing of Thy Great Mercy." Hers is a soft clear voice you'll delight in.

Seldom does one hear a basso with such soft pure tones as has Henri Schefoff. From the minute he starts to sing, he holds his audience spellbound. You will love him in the fourth number, "Through the Darkness."

G. Marston Haddock, tenor, is well known to radio fans for it is he who sings those lovely old English ballads. You will enjoy his radio programs more after you hear him in person, for you will feel he is your friend. I have just heard it whispered that he may be back one of these days for a whole evening. What a treat!

Fenton Foster's chorus and the Monterey Peninsula orchestra, all local people, form a wonderful background for these talented performers from out-of town and reflect the talent of their trainers and directors.

The last number, "To Him Be Glory Evermore," with full orchestra, chorus and soloists climaxes an evening of entertainment such as is seldom seen outside of a city.

The trial of Mrs. Clara Cowan of Seaside against William Machado on a charge of reckless driving which was set for Tuesday has been postponed to April 10.

Mrs. George Romine has been removed from her home to the Grace Deere Velie clinic for tratment. She is improving.

Never has Carmel had such an opportunity to show the country what she can do. It is true that more will be expected of Carmel than of any other locality due to the fact that here are living artists, actors, writers, playwrights, scenewrights, and it is equally true that with her array of talent Carmel can accomplish something really worth while.

I feel we are particularly fortunate in having George Marion to write this pageant and direct it and I know that everyone in Carmel will be ready to do anything he asks.

Although it will be six months before the fiesta, there is not too much time and anyone who has a helpful suggestion should lose no time in placing it before some member of the committee.

Let's all adopt Father O'Connell's suggestion and for the next six months, "go Spanish."

CHERRY MEYERS OPENS NEW DELICATESSEN

"Just tell them Cherry of 'Cherry's Waffle Shop' has opened up a delicatessen shop and Carmel folk will know who you mean," said Mrs. Frank Wild at her counter which she presides over in the Wild Market in Mikel's on Del Monte avenue. Mrs. Wild has a most delicious array of salads, cold meats, roast chickens, etc., and she cordially invites her friends to drop in and see her at 1101 Del Monte avenue, east of Monterey.

Robert Duncan and family of San Francisco are in the Sheets Play House this week.

STABAT MATER A CULTURAL TRIUMPH

Carmel scores another cultural triumph in Stabat Mater given this week at Sunset and in Pacific Grove. More than seventy-five musicians and singers participate in this great musical festival of Rossini's directed by Michel Penha and Fenton Foster, and probably no other town of this size in the country can boast of a production its equal or anything that has the support given the endeavor by the Carmel Music Society. The Music Society with the things it brings to Carmel is one of the things that make Carmel what it is.

CARMEL IS TOUGH FOR DRUNKEN DRIVERS

Again we commend Judge Wood for his determined stand to make Carmel a place of terror for drunken drivers. This week he sentenced one who had been pronounced drunk by a physician to serve NINETY DAYS IN JAIL. Those who think the sentence heavy must remember that every drunken driver is a potential murderer, deserving of not the slightest sympathy. In this particular smash up, one woman occupant of the car hit, suffered three broken ribs, while other occupants were bruised and shaken up, not to mention that the car was damaged in the amount of possibly one hundred dollars. The sentence was light. It should have been at least six months in jail and a fine of not less than $500 to be worked out or paid in cash.

CONGRESS DISCOVERS A BACKBONE

The vote of the House and Senate this week overriding presidential veto of the bill restoring the wage cut of government employes and partial pension cuts to veterans is comforting in more ways than one. It is cheering to know that deserving government employes, always underpaid, will have their old schedule of wage payments resumed and the thousands of dependent veterans will have the help they deserve. But the most satisfying thing about the vote is the fact that at last congressmen and senators are beginning to wake up to the fact that the "people back home" did not send them to Washington to be cheer leaders and vote "Yes, Yes, Yes," to every proposal made. Americans are a docile and easy-going people up to a certain point and that particular breaking point has always been reached when an attempt is made to force them to do anything. And then we are anything but a docile and easy-going people. It will take a good many generations for the American people to be content under the rule of one man even though he be such an excellent man as President Roosevelt.

POLITICAL MUDSLINGING MARKS WEEK

Carmel has been full of mud the past few weeks and particularly this past week, all slung in the heat of political battles the most of which is of no consequence. One of the unfortunate things in political scraps is the fact that there are always those who will stoop to any thing in the last hours before an election to win their fight. Rumors are started, coldly calculated to tear down and besmirch the good reputations of a life-time. What is a game to the politician frequently ends in a tragedy to the individual. For this reason if for no other, every rumor circulated against any political candidate should be considered only with sensible reasoning and friendships maintained accordingly.

An Open Letter on Sunset Politics

March 26, 1934

Dear Mr. Wheeler:

Thanks for your letter, but I can't see myself getting excited over the school election. I just love a battle where the issue is clean-cut and the action fast. Personally I get a great kick out of a fight where the fighting is fast and furious while it lasts and then comes to an abrupt end, and I have a few more friends whom I cherish and a few more enemies in which I rejoice.

But these school brawls aren't even good fights; they are merely hair-pullings. You haven't even a good issue, and fighting without a real issue doesn't interest me. These School Board hair-pullings have been going on for years. If they continue they soon will BECOME an issue themselves—an issue for the City Council—to be abated as a public nuisance. It is as disruptive of the peace and harmony of the community as any other discordant noise or odor.

No, you school people have no real issue. You have merely a bone of contention. The nearest approach you have to an issue is in the person of your Principal, Mr. Bardarson; and you can't stage an interesting fight based on personalities.

Your school fights seem always to revolve about Mr. Bardarson. One group wants him, another group wants to fire him. Being a disinterested observer from the sidelines I can easily size up your scrap. Both groups are highly prejudiced but a dispassionate weighing of the evidence discloses to your humble, (not so's you could notice it), referee that the Fors have about ten times as many substantial arguments for as the Againsts have against. To the Againsts I'd like to point out that you can stretch your opponent flat on his back in a couple of rounds and still lose the fight on points by a city block.

Furthermore, the evidence discloses that among the people of Carmel who are taking an active and substantial interest in school affairs the Fors far outnumber the Againsts. And we live in a country in which the wishes of the majority—right or wrong—must be observed.

I don't know Mr. Bardarson. Until a month ago I had never even known what he looked like. But any man can get any other man's number" if he is a judge of people and makes it his business to find out. In sizing up a man that one doesn't know, the first move is NOT to listen to his supporters. Listen first to his detractors and weigh their objections.

From the Againsts I hear two chief objections—Mr. Bardarson is too highly paid and he is a politician. I will dispose of the latter objection first. I can settle that one instantly. I'll SAY that he is no politician! His article that occupies Page 2 of the Carmel Cottager of March 23 proves it. I haven't read it—only its opening paragraph. But I assert that no man with the slightest political acumen would have permitted this article to get into print during a political campaign. Mr. Bardarson has the educator type of mind; he is NOT politically minded.

As for his drawing "too much money," that is as one sees it. As your current referee sees it, any man who has the gumption that God gave wild-geese sells his services for the most he can get for them. If he didn't he'd be too big a fool to be the principal of a school. A man's first duty is to provide as well as he can for his wife and his children. If he neglects that duty how can he be expected to observe his duty to other people's children. If there is blame coming to anyone for Mr. Bardarson's getting more than other principals the blame is not his. Perhaps he is EARNING more. Knowing nothing about present-day schools I can't say. But I fancy that any man who can keep his feet on the ground and his head up while he is the center of a personal hair-pulling bee is earning a hell of a lot of money.

There is another good way of getting a line on a man whom one doesn't know—listen to the people whose activities he supervises. I have listened to a lot of the school kids. Kids nowadays are instinctively better judges of the true innards of a man than are their less sophisticated parents. And I haven't run across a single kid who isn't crazy about Bardarson. When a roughneck among the kids says, "He's a grand guy," that's the last word. No grown-up can get any better size-up of a school master's insides than that. And when you have a principal who engenders that spirit among the kids then the community itself has in that principal at least one asset.

You say that as an educational institution you have an exceptional school. I have heard even the Againsts concede that. Architecturally it is terrible. Even the name, "Sunset," was inept—connoting the dying day. So I presume the school will be forced to be exceptional in order to take the curse off its exterior.

To me the significance of the coming election for a school trustee is not at all who shall be elected. It is in the question whether you are going to stop the hair-splitting and hair-pulling that is rapidly and needlessly raising a smell that is becoming a public nuisance.

Yours with regard,
(Signed) CLAIR FOSTER

JOHN H. NEIKIRK STATES VIEWS ON THE ELECTION

Having lived in Carmel for the greater part of the last eight years and having enjoyed with my fellow townspeople the benefits given our community by former councilmen and councilwomen, I have consented to become a candidate in the coming election with the intention of contributing my best efforts to the civic affairs of our village.

The last few years have brought changes that could not be anticipated by the community and the present council but clearly indicate a trend toward small town commercialism. Looking ahead to the completion of the Carmel San-Simeon highway, we can expect an influx of people to our city that will probably make our present Easter vacation crowds an every-day affair—to the joy of our shopkeepers and the disappointment of our home owners. The continued efforts made by a few people to commercialize our distinctiveness for personal gain have been successfully held in check to date. How long such movements can be held in check after the opening of the new highway will of course depend upon the electorate and their choice of the three candidates in this election. I realize the futility of erecting signs instructing the travelers that we are happy and contented as we are and we as a village are determined to maintain our status quo. And I know that the slogan of "Keep Carmel as It Is" or "Keep Carmel for the Carmelites" is futile in the face of the influx of tourists, vacationists, and our growing population—all factors beyond our control. So I suggest that as a community we accept the inevitable and try to mold it to our liking, adopting a program of planning for the future instead of dreaming of the past. A future in which we can endeavor to perpetuate those institutions of our past, art, architecture, literature, music, the theatre and allied crafts, which have contributed to our individuality and are not without commercial value to our local business people.

Should I be elected, I will endeavor to maintain a sense of balance against the tide of change to help maintain Carmel's traditions and to preserve its natural charm for the greater Carmel that seems so near us.

JOHN H. NEIKIRK.

Rev. D. Charles Gardner and family of Stanford are in their own house at San Carlos and Santa Lucia for the week. Dr. Gardner is the rector at Stanford.

Mrs. Floyd Parton and children are spending the week in their cottage on Lopez. Mr. Parton is president of the Reserve Building and Loan of San Jose.

Mrs. W. I. Phillips, accompanied by her granddaughter, Betty Phillips, is a guest at the home of her son, Dr. T. Grant Phillips and wife in the Highlands. They arrived Saturday and will return to their home in the southern part of the state next Saturday.

COMMUNITY CHURCH HAS FINE DINNER

They had ham and cornbread and sweet potatoes and cole slaw and apple sauce and just about everything that goes to make up a good old southern dinner at the Community Church last Friday night.

You could almost feel the balmy air of Ole Kaintuck and smell the fragrant magnolias.

About 75 were present to enjoy the occasion. "We had a plenty," one of the committee said, "but it would have been too bad if there had been even one more."

Southen banjo music was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Phillips, all the beloved airs of the old south being well played.

Fred R. Zahner of Monterey, baritone, sang some of the old favorites, then the Mysterious Three, Aileen McEntire, Muriel Phillips and Gladys McEntire, dressed as picaninnies entertained with an act of tumbling, singing and dancing, and did it well. The Misses Helen and Harriett Pierce then delighted the audience with their rendition of negro spirituals which they learned on their father's plantation. Mrs. Mary Chapin and Mrs. Ed Warner gave as their share of the fun a skit, "Merinda's Philosophy."

Mrs. Jessie Askew is receiving credit for the delicious apple sauce and sweet potatoes; Mrs. Ed Warner for the ham and cornbread; Mrs. Grant Wills and Mrs. Jack McKaye for the cakes and Miss Agnes Williston and Miss Anna Marie Baer for the preserves and salad.

Those who were on the serving committee were Mrs. Alice Askew, Mrs. Peggy Logan, Miss Eva Mae Adcock and Mrs. Ivan Kelsey.

There was a fine spirit of cooperation on the part of all, each doing his share toward the success of the occasion.

VISITORS SEEK SHOPS; TEA ROOM TO LEAVE; LOVELY THINGS HERE

Visitors to Carmel like to hunt around and find the clever little shops in out-of-the-way places, such as "The Little Shop in the Little House," on Lincoln street, two blocks east of the library corner. And a trip there is well worth the walk for Mrs. Edwards has so many fascinating articles and things worth while.

You are going to have only a few more days to visit the lovely Russian Tea Room and Gift Shop, for, and we say it in sorrow, this attractive shop is moving bag and baggage to Monterey on April 9. This shop will be greatly missed by the many who made it a point to stop there on their way to and from the library. Make the most of the days you have left and enjoy an hour there, while you may.

Stella's had so many pretty things for the season they had a hard time to single out anything to mention especially, for now is the time when everyone is wanting things for the beach, as well as for Easter services at the churches, and too, spring calls for new cretonnes and new bedclothes, so out of, one might say,, everything, it is hard to single out a few objects.

Carmel visitors are enjoying browsing in the Treasure Chest this week, and you would, too. For of all the lovely imported things. Here you run onto a little chintz set from England, there some pottery from old Spain and tucked away in another corner you will find some of the clever Mexican work. Surprises on every hand—! If you like antiques, you can revel in them at Merle's or if you prefer things fresh from the factory, you won't be disappointed. Lovely old ambers! Up to the minute vanity cases! And loads and loads of other lovely gifts.

BUSINESS MEN MEET, TO DISCUSS LICENSES

At an enthusiastic meeting at Pine Inn Monday night the Carmel Business Men's association discussed further the new sliding scale license ordinance to be presented to the city council. So far all the business men who understand the provisions of the ordinance are thoroughly in accord with the idea, since it embodies a small protection from the fly-by-nights which invade Carmel for the summer season annually.

Talks were made before the association by Father O'Connell who assured the business men that no racketeering would be countenanced at the Serra Pageant to be given here next August. He suggested that if called upon by anyone claiming to work under the committee, the merchant would do well to ask for credentials.

Tom Thienes also spoke on the coming pageant and explained what would be attempted here.

COUNCIL WON OVER TO NEW LICENSES

Becoming convinced that the majority of the business men are backing the new sliding scale plan of licenses, the city council finally gave evidence of accord at their meeting Wednesday night.

A separate clause in the ordinance will provide for the laundries, plumbers, cleaners and dyers and others who can not be put in the general classification.

A meeting will be held Saturday which will be attended by the contractors, the business men's committee and the council to arrange some plan for the contractors which will be agreeable.

It is hoped that the ordinance can then be completed and be ready for the first reading next Wednesday night.

JUDGE, MRS. CLARK ENJOY ANNIVERSARY

Fifty-seven years wedded and 25 years in Carmel—that is the history of Judge and Mrs. Charles Clark, beloved Carmel couple who celebrated their wedding anniversary Wednesday.

Judge and Mrs. Clark received dozens of friends who called at their home on Monte Verde and Santa Lucia to congratulate them. A daughter, Miss Margaret Clark, resides with them and three sons live in Texas.

Judge Clark is still actively engaged in law work. Mrs. Clark has been somewhat of an invalid for the past five years.

May this happy family remain unbroken for many years to come.

SOME COMMITTEES NAMED FOR CLINIC

W. W. Powell, president of the Clinic board and trust officer representing the Grace Deere Velie estate, was in Carmel Saturday and Sunday. He conferred with Joseph Schoeninger, general chairman for the Peninsula Community Hospital campaign. Mr. Powell again asserted that they were offering the magnificent building and grounds as a gift to the people of the communities, if they will only express in terms of dollars a desire to create a real community hospital.

Chairman Schoeninger is now busily engaged in setting up a real volunteer campaign organization in order that our people may be contacted during April. He has announced a partial list of his appointments of members to the executive and Initial Pledge committees as follows: Mrs. Paul Dougherty, Mrs. McKim Hollins, Mrs. Henry D. Phelps, Henry F. Dickenson, A. W. Wheldon, Eugene Watson, Mrs. Robert Stanton, S. A. Trevett, Helen Heavey, Mrs. Vera Veck Millis and Carl P. Burrows.

No concerted effort has yet been made to secure subscriptions for this worthy cause, according to Mr. Schoeninger, who said, "We are seeking a group of loyal men and women who have a real desire to save this magnificent institution for community hospitalization purposes. They will contact our citizens on the Peninsula."

BOX RENTS BEING PAID BY PATRONS

This is the last week to pay your box rent at the post office. "The rents have been coming in steadily," said the post master, Mrs. Irene Cator, "and I hope that everyone will pay, since I should hate so much to withdraw box service from any of my good patrons."

Word has been received by Mrs. Irene Cator, postmaster, that bids will be accepted by the government for a postoffice building for two years with an option to extend three additional years. The lease on the present building expires June 30. Bids must be in by April 20. Specifications may be obtained at the post office.

CARMEL SEA SCOUT SHIP IS LAUNCHED

Over thirty young and older men were present at the Boys' Club on Friday evening to hear Scout leaders present plans for the organization of a Sea Scout Ship for Carmel boys and young men. Mr. Herman Crossman opened the meeting by stating that the older men of Carmel were willing to meet the boys and young men half way in any constructive effort and the organization of a Sea Scout Ship was an appeal to the natural interests of young men. Mr. Crossman pointed out that our proximity to the Pacific Ocean and inevitable increase in ocean trade should make the Sea Scout Ship an enjoyable activity and in many cases it would serve as a preparation and foundation for seamanship. Mr. Ranald Cockburn, newly appointed first mate of the Carmel Sea Scout Ship, expressed his love of the sea and appealed to young men with similar interests. Skipper Stanley Greeb of the Monterey Ship expressed the desire of the Monterey group to cooperate with Carmel. Rev. George Petrie, district personnel committeeman, gave those present a perspective of the possibilities of a ship organization. Commander Peterson, retired naval commander, was announced as the Skipper of the Carmel Sea Scout Ship. Commander Peterson touched briefly on his sea experiences. He gave the young men present a clear picture of the preliminary requirements and answered innumerable questions provoked by the interest of his listeners. Several indicated their intention of being present at the first meeting at 7:30 p. m., Friday, March 30, in the Sunset School. Rev. Melvin Dorsett pointed out that the Sea Scout Ship would in no way conflict with the Boys' Club activities. Doughnuts, cake and pop topped off a very stimulating evening.

The Carmel Scout Troop committee as announced by Mr. Crossman consists of the following men: Mr. Herman Crossman, chairman; Mr. Otto W. Bardarson, publicity; Mr. Hurd Comstock, treasurer; Rev. Melvin C. Dorsett, personnel; Mr. Louis Levinson, finance; Mr. Everett Smith, recreation.

Local residents present were: "Doc" Staniford, chairman of the Boys' club committee; Rev. Austin B. Chinn, Mr. Ira D. Taylor, Mr. Eugene Roehling, Mr. Ernest Perkins and Mr. John Neikirk. Visitors from outside of Carmel included: Skipper Stanley Greeb of Monterey; Leonard Lenger, Pete Nielsen, Jimmy Costello, Shirley Freeman. Carmel boys and young men present were: Paul E. Taylor, John Sheridan, Vernon Wills, Harlan Wilder, Joe DeAmaral, Hal Stone, Lytton Hitchcock, George Cook, Tom Harbolt, Clifford LeNeve, Dave Marquis, John Logan, Dan Coblenz, Maurice Grimshaw, Leroy Bowen, Kent Clark, Bill Nye, Nels Edquist.

TO MAKE IT CLEAR

In order to avoid the crowding and confusion of last year's school election, the trustees of the Sunset School District have divided the district into two precincts for the election on March 30 and have arranged for two polling places.

Directions for getting to the right polling place are simple. If you live inside the city limits and west of San Carlos street, vote at the fire-house on Sixth street. If you live in any other part of the district, vote at the polls for the precinct in which you are registered.

Mrs. Argyll Campbell is in the Grace Deere Velie clinic for a few days' rest.

You can't buy style "off the shelf!" True style isn't stamped to a pattern—it's moulded to conform to your figure. That's one reason why a tailor-made suit gives hard-to-fit men a style that can't be duplicated.

PUBLICITY MAN HAS A COLORFUL CAREER

States but he has a long-standing love for Carmel with the hope of making his permanent home here some time, which is a double assurance that the Old Mission will get the best. Some time in June or July Mr. Williams and his family will take up their residence in Carmel until after the pageant.

One feature recently supplied by Mr. Williams appeared in forty-eight major newspapers throughout the country and this is only one of the many planned. Mr. Williams will be at a public luncheon some time after Easter when detailed plans of the publicity campaign to be started soon will be made known to all newspapers of the peninsula.

Mr. Williams is not only in interesting work in itself but his life's history is colorful and exciting. When he was a boy in his teens he fought in the Foreign Legion in Mexico under Madera against Diaz and later, under Zapata against Madera. His batallion of 300 came out with only 98 alive.

He was publicity manager for northern California for President Roosevelt in the last election and acted in the same capacity for Al Smith in 1928. He was a member of the old Bohemian club in San Francisco when, to use his expression "it was real Bohemian," and there, 15 years ago, he met our Mayor John Catlin. When he came to Carmel on Serra Pageant business he was taken to see the mayor by Father O'Connell, and imagine his astonishment to see in person his old friend of Bohemian days, John Catlin. And one of those curious incidents occurred while he was talking to the mayor, when John Kenneth Turner, another old friend whom he had not seen since Mexican revolutionary days, turned up and made him still happier.

CINDERELLA SHOP IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Only by the efficient work of the Carmel fire department was Carmel saved from a more disastrous blaze when fire broke out in the Cinderella shop Monday night about 11 o'clock.

Although it is evident the building had been smoldering for some time none of the passersby noticed the smoke until Dr. Matzke and Nightwatch Nixon discovered it at the same time.

A small electric burner on which was a kettle of water had been left on the ironing board and when the kettle boiled dry, it melted, fell on the board and set it afire. Immediately the flame was [illegible] in between the walls and on up between roof and ceiling and the wood charred from lack of air.

The roof of the back part of the building is gone, part of the tiles from the front are torn up, the whole building and contents were water soaked and everything damaged by smoke or water. A few dresses were carried out but more were left.

Mrs. H. J Morris and Miss Janet Prentiss owned the Cinderella shop, and the hat department was owned by Miss Allen. Ernest Schweninger is owner of the building. Damage to the building is estimated at $2500 and to the stock $5,000.

Much praise is due the firemen who risked their lives in keeping the flames from spreading and who labored so valiantly for three hours.
